Corps and Ohio River Pipeline meet to discuss suspension

HUNTINGTON, WV... After a day-long meeting today between representatives of Ohio River Pipeline LLC (ORPL) and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, ORPL (the permittee) is developing a plan for corrective measures to address Thursday's suspension of the Department of the Army Permit on the ORPL pipeline.

ORPL will provide the corrective measures plan this weekend to address the issues of non-compliance that caused the suspension. If the plan is approved by the Corps, work crews may be back on the job to begin the corrective measures as soon as Monday, July 7.

While corrective work is carried out, ORPL will submit a long-range plan to address construction on the remainder of the pipeline.
